About Me - Shilpa Srinivas

Shilpa Srinivas

Right from my childhood, I always wanted to stand out and make a difference. In school, I was the first to raise my hand and participate in tons of debates and competitions and won many awards and medals. As I moved on in life, I continued to be really passionate about conveying my message. I really wanted to IMPACT and INFLUENCE the society. This is why I am in this field.

When I was in London, it was then that some small events created an impact on me and I really decided to give it my best shot.

I have recently received the prestigious Diamond Naari 2022 Award for outstanding contribution and training close to 5000 people online.

I have got featured on JOSH TALKS twice which is a great feather in my cap. If I am able to uplift and transform the lives of people around me, then surely it is my dream come true and I want to whole heartedly pursue it.

For lack of online world back then, all my trainings and journey so far has been in physical locations. Now with the advent of technology, it is the right time to GO DIGITAL and share my knowledge and experience so that people can truly RECLAIM THEMSELVES..

WHY IS LEARNING ENGLISH SO IMPORTANT AND SPOKEN ENGLISH DIFFICULT

SHILPA SRINIVAS

English is a universal language and it is understood all over the world. In fact, in today's world speaking English has become a necessity. English is the most spoken language in the world. Being proficient in English has significant advantages as it helps you to grow in your career holistically. It is not only that but today's generation looks down upon anyone who is unable to speak English. If you're a person whose mother-tongue is not English, the chances are, you've learnt English in the 'non-natural way'. That is, you've learnt English in a way that is opposite to the way of natural language acquisition.

You know, the natural way of acquiring a language is to learn to speak it first and then to write it. Those people who do not learn English the natural way, know reasonable English - or even excellent English. And if you ask them to write a report or something in English, they may do it fairly well. But, if you ask them to speak to you about the same thing, they find it hard to do. Or even impossible.

When they start speaking, most of the words remain on the tip of their tongue and don't readily come out. And often, what words do come out sound disconnected and random. And, they find themselves speaking in a clumsy and unclear way, with long gaps and intervals of indecision between every two words. And they keep fumbling for something to say. Not only this, they find it difficult to go on beyond one or two lines, without tripping up and without stumbling over the sounds or sequences of sounds. And then, they tend to fall back upon their mother-tongue - or become tongue-tied.

Are you experiencing these common problems? Then you are not alone. Especially in this post pandemic era, working on your weaker areas is significantly important. The World Economic Forum estimates that by 2025, 50% of the workforce would need to upskill or reskill themselves. If you want to progress in your career, want that promotion that you have long wanted, stand out from the crowd, be uniquely different, communicate confidently then English is a must-have skill. When you can't speak fluent English, you face humiliation, you lose confidence and your self esteem goes for a toss. There are some fundamental problems of how we have learned English which is why it has become a huge barrier. The old and traditional schooling system of learning English is flawed. It has made us feel low if we made a mistake and hence, we have resigned to a corner. Learning and speaking English has become intimidating and fearful.

Thankfully, there are so many effective and smart ways of learning English in this modern world. Using these effective strategies and techniques, you will find yourself coming out of your cocoon of being a robotic and hesitant speaker to someone who can easily and fluently speak English. Have you wondered by any person learning a new skill alone gives up after sometime? They lose the motivation. They can't continue on the path. But what if there are like-minded, helpful group of people whose common goal is to learn English effectively? Your journey of learning English will be fun and you will learn with ease with no pressure and stress.

Also, why should learning English be so boring? Its because everyone uses the same old methodology. One of the significant drawbacks of this is they have an outdated system of imposing Grammar wherein you study all the rules of Grammar but sadly you are still not fluent. This is exactly the problem that needs to be solved. Learning all the tricks and tips of Grammar, will NOT make you fluent. On the other hand, it can be an impediment and obstacle in your journey. You try to remember grammar when you speak and construct sentences and a result your conversation becomes robotic and unnatural.

What if we say – LEARN ENGLISH WITHOUT GRAMMAR?

Does it sound cliché? This is the new mantra that we emphasize. We provide some cool and modern techniques for becoming proficient in English. As with learning any new skill, there are many layers of learning English. We break down the different layers in a step-by-step approach so that by the end of the course it becomes easy for you. So even without learning complex grammar and hard vocabulary, you will still be able to speak fluently.

One of the most important way to get ahead in life is being able to develop a strong mindset. The reason this is required in addition to learning any skill is that today's world is ruthless. You can be pulled down and people can laugh and mock at you when you make a mistake. But how do you stay strong? More than the skill set, it is the mind set which matters. It is the resiliency and never give up attitude which matters.

What if we train you on this finer aspect as well? We help you break your limiting beliefs and your fears that you crept deep inside you. And once you understand this, you will be able to break free and live a confident self.

Without big promises, we are an academy which has touched thousands of participants who want to learn English and inspired and motivated them. We don't believe in jargons and flowery words but we believe in delivering what we say. There are hundreds of participants who have come out of our Academy with renewed optimism and with great confidence to face the real world.

So, come join us at SELF Academy and be amazed at the transformation you can achieve.

In the below section, please find few categories of Spoken English which will help you become comfortable with the language.

CONTRACTIONS

Contraction means to shorten a word or phrase by omitting one or more sounds or letters from it. The word so formed is also called a contraction. Discussed below are the various contractions used in spoken English.

The apostrophe has two uses:

1. To show that we have made words shorter. We have contracted them.
2. To show that something belongs to someone, i.e., they possess it. (possession)

Here are two examples.

- My dad's car is red.

Here we have only one dad but we have put on the letter's' because we have put an apostrophe. It shows that the car belongs to dad.

"I'll tell you that later," he whispered.

I will has become I'll, we have joined two words and missed out the letters WI and put in the apostrophe instead. We use apostrophes because it can make our writing easier to read.

Let's start with Let's. Except for some set phrases (example: 'Let us pray') let us is almost always expressed as a contraction: Let's.

Example:

- Let's go!

It is almost always used to express an imperative, thus:

- Let's do it!

That's = That is

- That's all = That is all
- That's all I want = That is all I want
- That's it = That is it
- That's my son = That is my son
- That's my child = That is my child
- That's my daughter = That is my daughter
- That's what I wanted to say = That is what I wanted to say doesn't = does not

won't = will not haven't = have not can't = can not

wouldn't = would not shouldn't = should not couldn't = could not

mustn't = must not

Examples:

- He hasn't been here in a long time.
- He isn't here now.
- I don't know when he will be here.
- He doesn't know when he will get here.
- I won't know until he gets here.
- I haven't been told.
- I can't find out.
- I wouldn't tell you if I knew.
- I shouldn't tell you.

- Who's that? = Who is that?
- Who's calling? = Who is calling?

CONVERSATIONS

Using dialogues to help anybody develop their conversation skills is common practice in English. One of the main advantages to using dialogues is that people are given a rubric as a basis on which they can then build. Once they have become comfortable using a dialogue, they can then go on to have related conversations building on their familiarity with the dialogue and the vocabulary specific to the situation. Here are links to various dialogues, which can be used in the daily life.

Each dialogue is presented in full and focuses on a specific topic.
